

SANKALPTARU FOUNDATION

As soon as the national lockdown was called in India, the SankalpTaru Foundation was left with a very tricky choice. On one hand, we decided to safeguard our farmer beneficiaries and operational crew, and on the other, we didn't stop looking after our trees and saplings. After all, there is no life without trees. Moreover, a pandemic like COVID-19 is a warning message sent to us by nature to stop environmental destruction. Our underlying I.T. platform is coming in handy as we continue our operations and monitor things remotely.

THE ONE TREE ONE MEAL CAMPAIGN HAD AN AMAZING START!

The One Tree One Meal campaign began from Shegaon in Maharashtra and expanded to Barmer in Rajasthan to provide meals to the migrant workers stranded in these regions of India whenever someone planted a tree with us online. Keeping in mind and following all the precautionary measures of personal and social hygiene set down by the World Health Organization and the Central Government, we began this campaign so that people do not have to remain hungry during these tough times.

You plant a tree, we feed a person

Apart from feeding the workers, we needed to ensure the maintenance of saplings and trees that were planted earlier. Our on-ground coordinators and volunteers followed all the hygiene routines while taking care of the plants as well as humans amidst this nationwide lockdown.

As the lockdown extended, the One Tree One Meal campaign expanded towards the second phase
